Crowe Raps Police; Opens War on Murder Gangs

ORDERS ARREST OF GUNMEN AS DUFFY SUSPECTS

Law and Order Must Not Break Down.

(From our back page.)
President Coolidge today ordered the arrest of John Duff, a Chicago underworld figure, as a condition for the release of the administration of justice.

The state's attorney's determination to take over the job of breaking up the underworld came when the police failed in their efforts to bring the underworld executives of the city to justice. It was admitted yesterday in police headquarters that the case of the John Duff-Mayhew murder hangs in midair, the case being a deadlock.

Time for hard work.
It is absolute weakness to declare that justice has broken down in Chicago, said State's Attorney Crowe. There is no question but that the underworld is a dangerous element in the city, but the more difficult the task the more need there is for hard work.

"I want these persons brought as my own and I shall insist they be brought in."

"Dan O'Rourke, a man with a record as a bootlegger and gunman."

"Harp Miller, long an underworld character and concerned in the killing of two policemen."

"Dan McCarthy, labor slinger and labor leader."

"Yankie Schwartz, whose name has been too often mentioned as a bad man in the east."

"Earl Wells, handy man for Dan O'Rourke, house peddler and suspicious character."

"John Turley, long a kingpin in the underworld."

"Joe King is Boss King."

"I want all these men and all their associates. The iron ring that Chief Crowe talks about is a ring of boys. I want them. I have mentioned are rapid."

"The state's attorney is willing to let me do the work. If the state has declared a complete emergency in efficiency, I shall try to make sure that justice has not broken down."

CONGRESSMEN TO HELP MEN IN ARMY PRISONS

Moved by Exposés in Tribune.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—(Special.)—Stirred by the facts revealed by the Tribune concerning excessive sentences in the federal prison at Leavenworth for crimes or alleged crimes committed in France and Germany during the war, Representative Allen Moore (Rep., Ill.) has requested the war department and the navy department to furnish him a detailed report on the military prisoners, with a view to introducing a resolution providing for a review of the cases if the facts justify such action.

"If it be true that these men are serving long sentences for minor offenses, while conscientious objectors, so-called 'political prisoners,' and others have been freed by our government, I shall introduce my resolution at once," Mr. Moore said today.

What Resolution Provides.
The resolution will provide for an absolutely impartial review of the cases of military prisoners held in the United States, and the committee and a plan for the review of the cases.

The review will take in all cases of prisoners who served from April, 1917, to the signing of the treaty of peace with Germany in June, 1919.

The extraordinary sentences, originally imposed because of wartime necessities, have in a majority of cases, in all of the cases, been reduced by the war department board of review in 1919. The question before the congressional board of review will be whether these sentences may not with safety and justice to the men and to the public be reduced still further or remitted.

New Compiling Facts.
The war department, which was called on ten days ago by Mr. Moore for the facts in the cases of the military prisoners, is now preparing the record of each man's case, including his trial and reports on his conduct since his incarceration.

Nearly all the men have good conduct records, which operate automatically to shorten the remaining period of each man's sentence. Others, however, are seeking to establish their claim to the principal and interest on $2,000 which they allege was deposited by the chief in 1919, in the Old First National bank of St. Paul.

The certificate of deposit is still in existence, according to Mrs. G. Blue Cloud, a granddaughter, and the legacy amounts approximately to $100,000, with interest compounded annually at 4 per cent. Following the treaty of 1921, in which lands west of the Mississippi were ceded to the United States by the Indians, Chief Little Crow received a government allotment of $2,000, which he deposited and never touched, Mrs. Blue Cloud says.

No Funds for Ulster.
In the war budget no provision is made for financial assistance to northern Ireland, which last year cost the British exchequer $2,400,000 ($1,620,000). The disheartening of Ulster, which cannot meet its yearly obligations without help from the outside, probably will have an important influence on Ulster's attitude in the negotiations with the Free State.

The activities in Mesopotamia will cost Great Britain $2,000,000 ($1,500,000) less during the next fiscal year. The appropriations for the colonial service are slashed $7,500,000 ($2,350,000), and for the agricultural department $2,000,000 ($1,500,000). The board of trade is given $800,000 ($2,150,000), or just half of what it spent last year, and the appropriation for the ministry of labor is reduced $2,000,000 ($1,500,000).

Wind Up War Undertakings.
A material saving is also made in the windup of the war undertakings. Only $10 ($42) is allotted to shipping liquidations, against $2,000,000 last year. Funds for the coal mine districts are placed at $500,000, against $1,500,000 ($4,450,000) last year. Emergency action compensation is $250,000, against $1,500,000 ($1,750,000).

The board of education estimates is cut $24,000 ($147,000), and the appropriation for public instruction in Scotland is cut $500,000 ($660,000). The appropriation for colleges in Great Britain and intermediate education in Wales is increased $72,000 ($812,000). Scientific investigations in up $12,000 ($50,000), and for industrial research an additional $58,000 ($249,000) is allowed.

The American Business club yesterday adopted resolutions urging President Coolidge to appoint a civilian committee to review cases of soldier prisoners and will send copies of the resolution to the President and to all members of congress.

At the same time plans were being made to send a committee to Washington from the local organization recently formed to advocate such a review and to urge various organizations throughout the country to take action similar to that of the business club.

WOMAN CANDY DEALER SEIZED AS THIEVES' AID
Stolen diamonds and other jewelry, furs, and silverware to the value of several thousand dollars were uncovered in the home of a woman candy dealer of Kensington last night following the arrest of a boy who told the Kensington police that the woman served him and others as a fence.

The woman, Mrs. Stephanie Penak, 1939 Row avenue, was locked up after seven victims of recent robberies had identified much of the loot.

Willie Fisher, 16 years old, 113 East Hundred and Thirtieth street, picked up on suspicion, confessed to selling stolen goods to the woman.

INDIAN DEPOSITED $2,000 IN '59; HEIRS NOW WANT $100,000

Minneapolis, Minn., March 4.—(Special.)—A son and daughter and granddaughter of Chief Little Crow today are seeking to establish their claim to the principal and interest on $2,000 which they allege was deposited by the chief in 1859, in the Old First National bank of St. Paul.

Jury Decides Harris' Wife 'Deceived' Him

New York, March 4.—(Special.)—Vital issues involved in the annulment suit of Beverly D. Harris, former vice president of the National City bank, against his wife, were decided by the jury tonight in favor of Mr. Harris.

Five of six questions put to the jury brought findings against Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris and sustained the banker-husband's charges that she misrepresented her social position and concealed her true moral character before marriage.

The sixth point of the decision went against Mr. Harris, but this merely held that he was guilty of negligence in delaying search for the truth.

As the suit was in equity, it was not the jury's province to say whether Harris was entitled to annulment. The jury's finding will be considered on Monday by the special term of the Supreme court.

Verdict in Detail.
The questions put to the jury and their verdict follow:

1. Prior to the marriage of the parties hereto did defendant represent to the plaintiff—

(A) That she was a member of the Lee family of Memphis, Tenn.? Answer: Yes.

(B) That Eli Raynor was her uncle? Answer: Yes.

(C) That Mrs. Hosea Harris was her aunt? Answer: Yes.

(D) That she was a pure and chaste woman? Answer: Yes.

2. Were said representations true or false? Answer: All false.

3. If said representations were made did plaintiff rely and act thereon? Answer: Yes.

4. If such representations were made as embodied in issue No. 1, and were untrue, did plaintiff know that they were untrue prior to the execution of the second separation agreement dated May 7, 1921? Answer: No.

5. If any such representations were made as embodied in issue No. 1, and were untrue, could plaintiff have ascertained the truth of any of them by the exercise of reasonable diligence prior to the execution of the second separation agreement dated May 7, 1921? Answer: Yes.

6. Prior to the execution of the second agreement, on May 7, 1921, did plaintiff postpone inquiry into defendant's past and parentage with her consent or by her procurement? Answer: Yes.

Will's Counsel Pleads.
During the summing up before the jury retired George Gordon Battle, counsel for Mrs. Harris, pleaded with the jury not to brand her "as an inmate of a house of prostitution."

He excused the testimony of Mrs. Rosa Corder, sister of Mrs. Harris, in which Mrs. Corder admitted writing a falsehood to Caruthers Ewing, counsel for Mr. Harris, with "some lies have now slipped out of the truth."

"She did it to protect her sister's name," said Mr. Battle. "You will remember that in 'Tristram Shandy' some one asked Uncle Toby, 'Is your friend going to die?' By God, he shan't!" cried Uncle Toby. And the author says that when the record angel wrote down that oath a tear blurred his vision."

"Getting rid of his wife," said Mr. Battle, "had become an obsession with Beverly Harris until he was ready to charge her with having led an immoral life with the man recognized to be his father. A more horrible stigma is impossible for the human mind to conceive. If your verdict is against her, you take from her everything which is worth living for. You strip her of everything, her good name, her reputation, and her husband—everything, in fact, that makes life worth living. If your verdict is in her favor Mr. Harris is put back in the position where he will be bound to carry out the contract he made in May, 1921, to give his wife $1,000 a month, and he will suffer only in that he will have to live up to a contract he made at a time he had full knowledge of his wife's past."

Neither Mr. Harris nor his wife was in court when the verdict was announced.

Fireman Overcome at Kenilworth Avenue Blaze
Fire swept the home of R. E. Galt, 2900 Kenilworth avenue, last night, causing a loss of $5,000. Mrs. Galt, who had not retired, smelled smoke and gave the alarm. One fireman was overcome by smoke and taken to a hospital. Galt, two sisters, and three children escaped to the street in scant attire.

COOLIDGE ASKS JURY QUIZ ON CONGRESSMEN

Burns and Walsh Have Hot Words.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—(Special.)—President Coolidge today ordered the department of justice to take steps at once toward the prosecution of the two members of the house of representatives accused of selling pardons, paroles, and other forms of clemency to federal prisoners and their friends.

The action of the executive was announced tonight by C. Bacon Slemmons, secretary to the President, who said that "the President immediately on seeing newspaper reports this morning implicating two members of congress gave immediate instructions to Mr. Seymour, acting attorney general, and reiterate the instructions this evening."

Mr. Seymour said that prompt and immediate steps be taken to place the evidence before a grand jury and proceed with every diligence in the prosecution of the cases.

Will Start Soon—Crim.
Following the White House announcement, John W. H. Crim, special prosecutor in the veterans' bureau fraud cases, who had the evidence implicating the two congressmen, said that the matter undoubtedly would be presented to a District of Columbia grand jury.

"I am working on all of these matters," he said. "I can't finish them in a day. It may require many days for me to finish my investigation. As the situation develops I will report from time to time to my superiors. I have not reported to them; I will not report to them unless they send for me until I have exhausted the entire situation. I do not postpone at this time to make public what I have done, and I do not propose to prophesy as to what I will do in the future."

Names Not Revealed.
The identity of the two congressmen has not been made public even to leaders in congress. Assistant Attorney General Grim, who appeared before the senate committee investigating the veterans' bureau this morning, declined to reveal the names to Senator Reed (Rep., Pa.), chairman of the committee, and refused to divulge any information other than to say they are members of the house.

Earlier in the day the house was asked to investigate the matter by Representative Garrett (Dem., Tenn.), who in introducing his resolution declared he had waited "valiantly for two days for the Republicans to take the action."

As to whether the rules committee would order immediate consideration of the resolution, Chairman Reed (Rep., N. Y.), who did not commit himself. He reported the committee would want more definite information "before they consider such an important matter as charges against the conduct of any members of the house."

Honor of Congress Involved.
The Garrett resolution follows: "Whereas, it is reported in the public press throughout the country that in bearing had before a grand jury in the city of Chicago, Illinois, evidence was developed that 'two members of congress' improperly accepted money in connection with securing paroles and pardons of persons convicted on crimes."

"And whereas, the honor and dignity of the congress require that the facts be immediately ascertained, to the end that such action as is essential for the congress itself to take, may be promptly taken; therefore,

"Be it resolved by the house of representatives,

"That a select committee of five members of the house shall be appointed by the speaker thereof, whose duty it shall be to proceed forthwith to make an investigation of such allegations and ascertain."

"(A) whether said 'two members of congress' so charged, are members of the house of representatives, and

"(B) if so, to make such further investigation as may be essential to establish the truth or falsity of said allegations."

Other outstanding developments of the day were:

1. The senate committee appointed to investigate Attorney General Daugherty arranged for a conference tomorrow with Special Prosecutor Crim in an effort to obtain his cooperation and assistance in bringing out all the facts relating to charges contained in the Chicago grand jury report reflecting on the conduct of affairs in the department of justice.

2. President Coolidge, it was stated, will reside through the department.

4. Francis H. McAdoo, son of William Gibbs McAdoo, testified that the law firm of which he and his father were members had been retained by McLean in 1919 and that McLean had informed him that A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney general, represented Fall and Sinclair, a department of justice agent.

5. Senator Walsh (Dem., Mont.), chief prosecutor in the Teapot Dome inquiry, made public an exchange of correspondence between himself and E. L. Doherty, in which the oil magnate last December invited him into an attractive business enterprise which he turned down because it might involve official improprieties.

6. Senator Brookhart (Rep., Ia.), chairman of the committee appointed to investigate Daugherty, wrote ex-Senator Chamberlain and Paul Howland, counsel for Daugherty, granting them the right of permission to take part in the proceedings on behalf of their client but explaining that the inquiry would be an "investigation and not a trial."

7. Senator Heflin (Dem., Ala.) in a senate speech told the story long current about Washington how Attorney General Daugherty and Harry P. Sinclair attended the Kentucky Derby together and bet money for cabinet members.

COMMITTEE CAN'T ACT

The senate committee which investigated the veterans' bureau learned from Mr. Crim that the charges against the two members of the house are not within the purview of the inquiry, and Senator Reed (Rep., Pa.) thereupon issued this statement:

"The veterans' bureau investigating committee spent more than an hour with Mr. Crim this morning. He declined to tell us the names of the two members of the house of representatives who were mentioned by the Chicago grand jury in their statement. He described in general terms the matters with which they were supposed to have been connected.

"These matters have no relation whatever to any phase of veterans' bureau activities and are clearly outside the scope of our committee's authority.

"Would Impede Prosecution. Any investigation by us into these matters could only impede prompt prosecution. What we need here is less talk and more action. It seems to be a matter for prompt prosecution, and we do not intend to delay it or to add the defense by an investigation that is beyond our function.

"The Chicago grand jury, of course, has no authority to act on the Perryville matter. I hope that that will soon be presented to a grand jury here in the east. But we do not want to interfere with the Chicago prosecution by insisting upon that, to the embarrassment of those prosecutions. We want it to be taken up quickly and not to interfere with the Chicago prosecutions by urging it.

"Mr. Crim reported to us that he has had the fullest cooperation from the attorney general and that he has not been impeded by any person in official position."

BET ON THE RACES

The reference to the story of Daugherty betting the cabinet money at the races as the guest of Sinclair came in the midst of a speech by Senator Heflin on the scandals of the hour.

"Why," exclaimed the senator, "there is a story to the effect that the attorney general himself, with Mr. Sinclair, went to the race track and bet money for cabinet members on race

POETICAL SENATORS DISPEL FUMES OF OIL WITH VERSES

Washington, D. C., March 4.—After having been gassed for weeks in the heavy fumes of oil and scorched by the flames of partisan debate, the senate today found a welcome relief in a few moments of comedy.

Senator Heflin of Alabama, renewing an attack on Edward L. Doherty, made a detour into the realm of literature and struck Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts in his home spot.

Senator Heflin was referring to Mr. Doherty's tax refund of $44,000 by the treasury department when he diverted to a parody on the classic tale of Abou Ben Adhem.

Substituting "Dough Heenie" for Ben Adhem, Senator Heflin read:

Abou Dough Heenie (may his tribe increase)
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace,
And saw within the moonlit room,
Laying in rows like a city of gold;
Enormous wealth had made Dough Heenie bold,
And to the senator in the room he said:
"What writest thou?" The statesman
Roused to his feet, and made Abou bold,
And, with a look which made Abou bold, Answered: "The names of those who speak for oil."

"And mine one," said Abou,
"We will see," replied the senator; but Abou cheerily
Responded in a still and softer tone:
"Write me as one who loves to make a loan."

The senator wrote and vanished. The next day

burns and that the one Daugherty bet on last; that later he turned over some money to Sinclair to bet and that Sinclair came back with a bunch of money and turned it over to him and he divided it and said:

"These are our winnings, and then you talk about remaining silent."

"Remaining silent? I know that some do not want the people to know about these things, but we are bringing them out for the purpose of showing how bad they look, and to serve notice on public men in the future not to be guilty of such things."

"I remember too in that connection that it was along at that time that Mr. Daugherty was buying stock in the Sinclair Oil company. Oh, Mr. President, the whole thing smells to high Heaven and yet the Washington Post carries the articles of Doherty or his lawyer abusing the senate, sitting right in the capital of the nation, right under the eyes of the President, condemning, scolding, exhorting the senate that has dared to employ lawyers to go and investigate these scandalous oil deals and to get this property back from him."

REFUSED DOHERTY'S OFFER

The session of the Teapot Dome committee was begun by Senator Walsh placing in the record the appointment of himself and Doherty. He explained that he wanted them made public because it had been whispered about in an effort to discredit him. This correspondence, it developed, had passed before Doherty admitted having received $100,000 to Fall, but after the investigation of the oil leases had been under way for some months.

The letters and telegrams related to an invitation by Doherty to Walsh and his brother to share with him in a business venture in Montana—an invitation which Walsh's letter shows he declined, because, as he told Doherty, this venture might involve leases with the government and he did not want to become interested in any enterprise which would handicap him in his official position.

The "Mary" Message

W. F. Friedman, code expert of the army signal corps, testified as to his verification of the translation of the cipher telegram found among those exchanged between Edward H. McLean and his agents in Washington.

The "Mary" message—that in which it appeared that McLean had been warned by Burns's letter showing being investigated—drew the committee's chief interest.

This message was decoded as follows:

"Feb. 2, 1924.
"The Breakers, Palm Beach, Fla."
Burns sent for me and told me communicate McLean inquiring being made special agent department justice.

He came again—it looked like Caraway. And showed the names of those whom Fall liked best; And so, Dough Heenie's name led all the rest.

Senator Lodge, the Republican leader and literature of the chamber, was not caught napping. He replied with a parody on Longfellow's "Booth and Slaves Have I None," reading as follows:

MR. VANDERLIP SAYS:
Absolute knowledge have I none,
But my aunt's washer woman's sister's son
Heard a policeman on his beat
Say to a laborer on the street that he
Had a letter just last week—
From a Chinese merchant in Timbuctoo,
Who said that his brother in Cuba knew
Of an Indian chief in a Texas town
Who got the Cape from a circus clown
That a man in the Klondike had it Straight
From a guy in a South American state
That a wild man over in Berrope
Was told by a woman who claimed to know
Of a well known swell society rake
Whose mother will undertake
To prove that her husband's sister's
Niece
Has stated plain in a printed piece
That he has a son who never comes home
And who knows all about the Tea Pot Dome.

Senator Heflin seemed satisfied and resumed his speech, while the august senate in better temper than it has enjoyed for several weeks.

Think this important information. "MAY."

Mary's Name Is Jessie. Mrs. Duckstein then took the stand. She admitted that she was an operative in the bureau of investigation in the department of justice, and that her husband, W. O. Duckstein, was private secretary to E. B. McLean; she also admitted sending the message signed Mary, although her own name was Jessie.

Senator Walsh asked her if she possessed the department of justice code. She replied that she did have the code at the time the message was sent, but that the code actually used was an obsolete one. She testified that Burns summoned her and told her a lawyer in the department of justice had informed him that inquiry was being made concerning McLean's connection with the bureau of investigation as a "dollar a year man."

Burns Suggested Wire. Burns, she said, suggested that she send a wire to her husband, who was then with McLean at Palm Beach. Burns, she said, expressed the belief that McLean would want to resign in order not to embarrass the attorney general. Members of the committee questioned her concerning that part of the telegram which said, "Think this important information."

"Why was this considered important?" Senator Walsh asked. Mrs. Duckstein said she was unable

BURNS IS BELLIGERENT

William A. Burns was a somewhat belligerent witness. He told the committee that McLean had been appointed a special agent of the department of justice some time before he took office in August, 1921. He supposed the appointment had been made soon after Harding's inauguration. He knew nothing of the circumstances of the appointment, he said. He repeated substantially Mrs. Duckstein's version of the interview which preceded the sending of the "Mary" telegram.

"Why didn't you send the telegram yourself?" Senator Walsh asked. "No reason," said Burns. "It was not my business—I had no right to ask McLean to resign."

"Nothing Mysterious," He Says. He grew more aggressive in his response to this question, and said in a loud voice:

"There is nothing mysterious in this bureau," he said, "and I am not a conspirator. We will draw our own conclusions as to that." Senator Walsh said, "All I asked you was why didn't you send the message yourself."

"I didn't care to do it that way," answered Burns. "But you did care to do it in this circuitous way," said Walsh.

"I wanted to get him to resign and save the attorney general embarrassment," retorted Burns. Burns said that McLean's salary was $1 a year. There were eight such dollar a year men connected with the bureau, and there were about thirty in the last administration. He was asked what service McLean had ever performed, and replied that he had gone to him several times and obtained important information.

Senator Dill interrogated him concerning the connection of Gaston B. Means with the bureau of investigation. Burns said Means' connection had been severed some months ago. He recalled Means' ability, characterizing him as the "best investigator in this country." Dill asked if Means had ever done any special work for President Harding. Burns said that he may have done some such service.

Burns Detectors Hired. Senator Dill wanted to know whether Burns detectives were ever hired to do work for the department in various cities over the country. Burns said that they were sometimes. On occasions, the department might want to get some work done by a competent investigator and he sometimes recommended the employment of Burns men, he said. He insisted that he had no connection whatever with the Burns agency, having severed it when he entered the government service.

Dill wanted to know if much money was spent in this way and he said "not much."

"Why were you so anxious to get Mr. McLean to resign?" he was asked. "Well, I thought the attorney general might be troubled enough," he said. "Every time he breathed the news papers shrieked about it."

"Has McLean resigned?" Senator Dill asked. "He has not."

Burns said he had hoped that Mc-

Lean would "take the hint" and resign when he had received the "Mary" message.

"He didn't take the hint, though, did he?" Dill asked. "Apparently not."

"Why hasn't McLean been fired, then, in view of the disclosure before this committee?"

Had No Authority. Burns said that he had no authority to fire McLean, and besides he had never been called upon to render any important service.

"He was just one of those dollar a year fellows," Burns commented. "I don't ask them to do any very important investigating."

Burns and Senator Walsh had a sharp tilt over Walsh's assertion that Burns' bureau had done nothing to assist the committee in disclosing the facts in the Teapot Dome investigation. Burns said he had never been asked to do anything to assist the committee, but that aid would have been given readily had it been sought.

"O, you couldn't serve two masters," Senator Walsh said. "We would have made the investigation sooner," Burns replied. "You were under Mr. Daugherty," retorted Senator Walsh. "That will be all."

YOUNG MCADOO TESTIFIES

Francis H. McAdoo, son of William Gibbs McAdoo, took the stand next. He said that in 1919 the law firm of which he and his father were members was employed by McLean. It was a mistake that they had been in the employ of McLean for years, as was stated in one of the telegrams from McLean, he said. The employment was terminated about July 1, 1921, but in 1923 McLean again retained him, but not his father, McAdoo testified.

His employment, he said, had to do with the controversy between McLean and the trustees of his father's estate and "miscellaneous" matters. The committee wanted to know why it seemed necessary for McLean to have him consult with A. Mitchell Palmer concerning the preparation of the statement that McLean had loaned Fall the $100,000.

"Did he need a lawyer from New York for that?" he was asked. McAdoo said McLean informed him that he wanted him to assist in the preparation because Palmer "represented other interests." The "other interests" were Fall and Sinclair, according to McAdoo. Senator Dill recalled that Palmer had testified several days ago that he did not represent Fall or Sinclair.

YANKEE BUYERS FIND PROSPERITY TIDE IN GERMANY

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) LONDON, March 4.—About 18,000 exhibitors are doing a rushing business here in the largest fair in Leipzig's history, but only with German buyers. As a barometer of the country's industrial prosperity Leipzig has reached the high water mark this year.

So great has been the demand from Germany that trade has been maintained at a level high above the world market price, and American and British buyers, who had hoped to be able to make contracts for exports from Germany, find that except for toys, chinaware, and some dyes that they are unable to make any purchases.

STATE AUDITOR RUSSEL QUIT PRIMARY RACE

Withdrawal Seen as Blow at Gov. Small.

BY FRANK BUTZOW

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—[The State Auditor Andrew Russell withdrew from the Republican primary race for re-nomination. "In the race for re-nomination, and for the party harmony and for the good of the state," Russell said, "I have decided to withdraw my name from the nomination for the office of State Auditor." Russell's withdrawal is generally interpreted as a blow to Small, in that it suggests the party need of a "blood" and harmony.

Quits in Interest of Harmony. "As I have analyzed the situation confronting the Republican party this state, it appears to me that it would be wise to put new blood in the ranks of the party," Russell said. "The last time I withdrew from the April 8 primaries. In a state where the withdrawal was so common, it seemed to me that I should consider it. I have decided to withdraw my name from the nomination for the office of State Auditor."

STATE AUDITOR RUSSEL QUILTS PRIMARY RACE

Withdrawal Seen as Blow
at Gov. Small.

BY FRANK BUTZOW.

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—[Special.]—State Auditor Andrew Russell tonight withdrew from the Republican primary race for re-nomination, "in the interest of party harmony and for the good of the Republican party."

Mr. Russell's retirement caused the biggest political surprise in the capital since the last for withdrawing from the April 8 primaries. In a statement issued when the withdrawal was filed Mr. Russell said:

"After mature consideration I have decided to withdraw my name as a candidate for the nomination for auditor of public accounts on the Republican ticket."

Quits in Interest of Harmony.

"As I have analyzed the situation confronting the Republican party in this state, it appears to me that it would be wise to put new blood and representatives of the younger generation in the ticket for the purpose of rejuvenating it and to insure its success in November."

"Therefore, in the interests of party harmony and welfare, I have decided to take this step. It has been a life-long member and active worker in the party and I am deeply grateful to the voters for the many honors I have received at their hands."

The retirement of Russell leaves the field free to State Treasurer Oscar Jones. Marjorie Peterson of Chicago, the "dark horse" candidate, also withdrew tonight.

Russell's withdrawal is generally interpreted as a blow to Small, in that it suggests the party need of "new blood" and harmony.

CITY COURT SLATE

A general agreement the regular Republican county organization will advance any slate of candidates for municipal offices.

This decision was made to avoid complicating the county and state elections which the organization believes are in such excellent shape that they should not be disturbed by disputes over "politically unimportant" positions on the city bench.

As things now stand, all the Municipal court candidates will file nomination petitions individually and take their chances with the powers that be in trying to land somewhere near the top of the ticket.

The "hands off" policy was forced by the barring of Municipal Judge Edgar F. Jones from the slate. He was appointed to the bench recently by Gov. Len Small and has been speaking for the governor during the campaign in spite of the unwritten rule prohibiting judges from participating in politics. For those reasons the men in whose hands the decision lay held that Judge Jones was unacceptable as an anti-Small candidate.

Smith Balking at Small.

A formal announcement by Small was that on March 13 there will be a showdown on the pledge card work at a big meeting in the state arsenal at Springfield. All employees were ordered to have their cards in by that time.

The governor's announcement was that Frank L. Smith, chairman of the commerce commission, will speak on that occasion, but some doubt was expressed in Chicago concerning Smith's appearance.

Smith's long continued absence from the platform, coupled with the silence of William Hale Thompson, ever since his denunciation of the Lunt-Densen combination in the state senate, has been an important part of the collapse of the Small campaign in Cook county.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson, presidential candidate, spent a couple of hours at his national headquarters in the Auditorium yesterday during a "stopover" on his way to Battle Creek, where he opens up a three day speaking program in Michigan.

City That Suffered in Central American Earthquake

Main street of San Jose, the capital of Costa Rica, in which it is declared fully half of the buildings were demolished as the result of earthquake shocks yesterday. The city has a population of 40,000. No loss of life is reported.

COSTA RICA HIT BY NEW QUAKE; AMERICANS SAFE

Temblors Wreck Half of San Jose.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, March 4.—[By the Associated Press.]—Further earthquake shocks occurred here early this afternoon. No additional damage was reported. All the personnel of the American legation is safe. Minister Davis has cabled the Panama canal authorities, asking that they send assistance in case of further shocks of a serious nature.

The series of shocks, the strongest felt here in twenty-five years, began at 4 o'clock this morning. Fully half the buildings of San Jose were damaged and a number of casualties resulted.

American Legation Damaged.
A part of the American legation building collapsed, but the American minister and his family and the American consul and his family escaped uninjured. All other Americans here also reported safe.

Communication with neighboring cities is entirely cut off.

[San Jose, capital of the republic of Costa Rica, has been visited a number of times by serious earthquakes and slight earth tremors are frequent. In 1878 the cathedral was destroyed by an earthquake, and again in 1888 much damage was caused by an earth shock. The city, which has a population of more than 40,000, lies in a valley in a very rich agricultural region. It has well paved streets, parks, an electric lighting system, an observatory, national museum, and an institute of geography.]

Other Cities Are Shaken.
Washington, D. C., March 4.—[By the Associated Press.]—Cable reports brought information that in addition to San Jose, Costa Rica, San Juan de Sur, Nicaragua, and Port Limon, Costa Rica, were shaken.

The Rev. Francis A. Tondorf, director of Georgetown university seismological observatory here, said the shocks undoubtedly were submarine disturbances which traveled inland.

Last November he predicted that the next catastrophic earthquake would occur in Central or South America.

BEER AND BONUS, HART'S PLATFORM IN CONGRESS RACE

John P. Hart, soldier member of the general assembly, began his fight for election to congress from the Eleventh district at a dinner in his honor at the Hotel Aurora in Aurora, Ill., yesterday.

He pledged himself to stand for 2.75 per cent beer.

"The American people," he said, "have demanded a revision of federal taxes, the payment of the soldiers' bonus, and the modification of the Volstead act. Those three demands are the issues of this campaign."

His beer plank was cheered repeatedly. Discussing it, he said: "Everybody and his brother are on the pay roll trying to enforce a law that is a lie. Men have moved from downtown to downtown, basements have become barrooms, and half the family wash boilers are busy boiling bird poops."

"It's time to quit paying a pension to the peacetime pay roll patriots in Washington and pay a bonus to those who served in France," he said.

HOUSE APPROVES INVESTIGATION OF SHIPPING BOARD

Washington, D. C., March 4.—A sweeping investigation of the shipping board was authorized today by the house. Four Republicans and three Democrats, to be designated by Speaker Gillett, will serve on the committee.

The inquiry was proposed by Representative Davis of Tennessee, a Democrat on the merchant marine committee.

After brief debate a resolution was adopted providing for appointment of a special committee to conduct the inquiry.

COURT ISSUES WRIT TO CURB STRIKE VIOLENCE

Striking garment workers are prohibited by injunction from picketing or molesting employees of shops along South Market street. The writ was issued yesterday by Judge Denis E. Sullivan.

Since the strike was called a week ago today a number of the open shop workers have been stung and it is said, received threats.

Shortly before the injunction was procured by the manufacturers yesterday Joseph Weitzel, 3801 West 15th street, an employee of an open shop firm, was hit on the head several times with blackjacks by three men who alighted from a taxicab.

E. H. Dunnigan, an agent of the United States department of labor, arrived yesterday from Washington to attempt to arrange a truce.

Five hundred members of the Ladies' Garment Workers' union employed by Garment Workers' union employed by Evanston dress manufacturers have been given orders to strike this morning. Meyer Perlestein, an international official of the union, announced last night. Perlestein said work for shops affected by the Chicago strike had been sent to Evanston and done there.

FAKES PERSON ACCIDENTALLY DIES.
A coroner's jury investigating the death of Max Daley, 35 years old, 1514 North La Salle street, who died at the Passavant hospital yesterday morning, returned a verdict stating that he swallowed bichloride of mercury tablets, mistaking them for aspirin.

ACTORS' STRIKE LOOMS JUNE 1; PLANS STARTED

Producers Face Division
Over "Equity Shop."

New York, March 4.—[Special.]—Plans for a strike of union actors on June 1 began to take definite form today for the first time since negotiations were begun with the Producing Managers' association almost six months ago, in an effort to work out a new agreement.

The long drawn out negotiations, the several propositions and counter propositions, threats of strike and replying threats by managers to quit producing have failed completely to shake the determination of a group of producers not to accept what the union calls the "equity" shop and what the managers term a closed shop.

Some May Accept Terms.
As a result it is expected that on June 1 the Shuberts, William A. Brady, A. H. Woods, the Selwyns, and several other managers will have accepted the Equity's terms and will be able to continue their theaters in operation, while A. L. Erlanger, George M. Cohan, David Belasco, Winthrop Ames, Sam Harris, and several others either will have quit producing or will have a strike on their hands.

There still exists a possibility that the recalcitrant managers will accept the union's proposition, a possibility which, it is said, will exist until the day the strike becomes effective. The council of the Equity met this afternoon and agreed on a proposal to re-submit the proposition adopted some months ago both by the union and a committee of managers headed by Lee Shubert. The proposition provided that none but Equity players be employed in casts, but exempted the members of the Actors' Fidelity league who were in good standing on Sept. 1, 1923.

RELASCO STAR TALKS.

Miss Lenore Ulric, now playing an engagement in Chicago, and who is one of Mr. Belasco's stars, said: "I am a charter member of the Fidelity league. This was formed at the time of the last actors' strike. It is definitely opposed to the closed shop tactics of the Equity."

"I would rather cast my lot with Mr. Belasco than have the best job in the world with the Equity. He has done so much for me and for all who have had the good fortune to work with him."

Over at the Chicago Equity headquarters, 159 North State street, it was pointed out that it takes more than actors to make a play.

For the Equity, by virtue of its affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, could and probably would cause stage hands and musicians and electricians to strike in support of the Equity.

COOLIDGE WINS ENDORSEMENT OF IOWA DELEGATES

Back Dickinson for Vice President.

Des Moines, Ia., March 4.—[By the Associated Press.]—Republicans of Iowa today pledged their support to President Coolidge in the party's national convention at Cleveland, adopted resolutions endorsing his administration, and brought out the name of Congressman L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, leader of the farm bloc in the house of representatives, as a candidate for nomination for the vice presidency.

The action was taken at the state delegate convention, in which the state's twenty-nine delegates to the national convention were chosen. Political observers agreed that the President's supporters had won a signal victory in obtaining endorsement of his candidacy by the first delegate convention held.

Committee to Lead Delegation.

United States Senator A. B. Cummins will head the Iowa delegation, which includes two women—Mrs. T. F. Hollowell, state manager of the women's Coolidge organization, and Mrs. Eugene Cutler of Logan. Other prominent members are Addison Parker, former state senator and the Coolidge campaign manager for Iowa; B. B. Burnquist, chairman of the state central committee, and Hanford MacNider, former national American Legion commander. An expected fight on the convention floor for endorsement of United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart failed to materialize when his supporters decided not to ask that he be named as one of the delegates at large.

It was the second state convention since Mr. Brookhart's election in which no endorsement of his service was made.

Opposition to Instructions.

Opposition to the instructions for Coolidge came from but one district, the Tenth, the spokesman claiming that the convention did not have the right, at this early date, to bind the party in this state to the President. The farmers and voters in general, he declared, were not yet ready to endorse the President, particularly because of conditions in Washington.

To this, Robert Healy of Fort Dodge, an Iowa party leader, shouted: "The oil scandal is a Republican scandal, and we shall clean our own house."

"FARMER" HIRAM QUILTS

Lansing, Mich., March 4.—Hiram Johnston, Saginaw county farmer, will not be a candidate at the presidential primaries in Michigan next month. A letter from the Saginaw county man asking that his name be stricken from the ballot was received by Secretary of State Deland today.

Filing of a petition to place Johnston's name on the ballot caused a furore in political circles in the state because of its similarity to that of Senator Hiram Johnson of California, whose name will appear on the ballot and who carried the state for the Republican presidential nomination four years ago.

58 MEMBERS OF HOUSE WANT TO DAMPEN DRY LAW

Unite for Bill Favoring 2.75% Limit.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—[Special.]—Fifty-eight members of the house, twenty-two Republicans, thirty-five Democrats and one socialist, joined today in a definite movement to effect the amendment of the Volstead prohibition enforcement act so as to permit manufacture and sale of beer, wines and cider containing not more than 2.75 per cent alcohol.

These Congressmen introduced a bill which was referred to the judiciary committee and which they will press for action as early as possible.

Listed by Parties.

Republicans who joined in introducing the bill are:

Britten (Ill.), Brannan (Pa.), Connolly (Pa.), Dye (Mo.), Edmonds (Pa.), Hill (Md.), Kahn (Cal.), Keller (Min.), La Guardia (N. Y.), Lampert (Wis.), Lehigh (N. J.), McCreight (N. Y.), Meritt (Pa.), Newton (Mo.), Perkins (N. Y.), Ranney (Pa.), Rosenbloom (W. Va.), Schaffer (Wis.), Sherwood (O.), Stephens (O.), Schneider (Wis.), Voight (Wis.)—22.

Democrats who joined the movement are:

Browne (N. J.), Black (N. Y.), Bloom (N. Y.), Boylan (N. Y.), Celler (N. Y.), Carey (N. Y.), Cleary (N. Y.), Clancy (Mich.), Cullen (N. Y.), Connelly (Mass.), Corbridge (N. Berger (Soc., Wis.)—1. Total, 58.

Issue a Statement.

"The fifty-eight members participating in this movement," said a statement issued tonight, "feel that the definition of one-half of 1 per cent as intoxicating under the Volstead act is not in accordance either with fact or with the intention of the eighteenth amendment. They are confident that 2.75 per cent cannot successfully be claimed as intoxicating under the eighteenth amendment."

Their authority for this, among other things, is the statement of Mr. Volstead himself, made before the rules committee of the house in the hearings for the rule in reference to the supplemental act as to what percentage of alcohol was intoxicating in fact."

FROM WOMAN'S DEATH.

Police and the coroner's office are investigating the death yesterday of Mrs. Regina Arfelli, 38 years old, 2613 Luther street, believed to have been the victim of an illegal operation.

COOLIDGE STILL FAVORS MELLON TAX REDUCTION

Hasn't Decided What to Do with Modified Bill.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—(Special.)—President Coolidge is still for the Mellon tax reduction bill, which, however, the maximum surtax to get through the house.

The President authorized the amendment today that he is just as much for the Mellon bill now as he was before the house modified it by increasing the maximum surtax to 48 per cent and reducing the normal rate below the Mellon rate.

A White House spokesman in discussing the President's position, said the President entertains strong hopes that the senate will bring the bill back to the White House principle, but whether he will veto it if it comes to him in its present form is a matter that he cannot decide upon at this time.

The President's position is that the President does not know and cannot know now what he will do.

"You want to know if the President will veto a bill such as the house has passed," Frankly the President does not know.

"You want to ask if the President will sign such a bill. Just as frankly the President does not know."

In answering the President's position, the spokesman for Mr. Coolidge stated it to be the same as when he signed his annual message to Congress in December and the same as when he signed his annual message to Congress in December and the same as when he signed his annual message to Congress in December.

The President, it was made clear, will do everything possible to help the administration bill and then when a bill finally reaches him he will decide if it according to what in his judgment is in the best interests of the country. When his final decision is made he will have in mind a belief that tax reduction is desirable provided the means sufficient revenue to meet the needs of the government.

In spite of the President's desire that the senate finance committee should report out the original Mellon bill, the situation in the finance committee is much the same as it was in the house ways and means committee.

CALIFORNIA OIL FIELDS DEPLETED,
AND U. S. 'GAS SHY'

Los Angeles, Cal., March 4.—Production in the great oil fields of California is declining fast, and one of the greatest needs of the industry is for continued exploration on a scale that will meet constantly increased demands, according to Paul Shoup, vice president of the Southern Pacific railway and president of the Pacific and Associated Oil companies, who addressed the Advertising club here today.

Mr. Shoup declared that the great fields of Santa Fe Springs, Huntington Beach, and Signal Hill, at Long Beach, were showing marked falling-off in their flows. He added that these fields, although they had produced approximately $250,000,000 worth of oil, had not yet returned money invested in them.

The supply of gasoline in the United States, Mr. Shoup placed at less than enough to meet the nation's needs for any day.

He declared that the oil industry wished the whole truth brought out in the oil inquiry at Washington, but desired political expediency.

FORMER CHICAGO MAN FACES HIGH COURT IN RUSSIA

Robinson Is Accused of Juggling Funds.

MOSCOW, March 4.—[By the Associated Press.]—A twenty-two page indictment was read at the opening today of the trial of Alexander Krasnotcheff, former Chicago lawyer, known in this city as Robinson. He was a personal friend of Lenin. He is charged with juggling funds of the Commercial and Industrial bank and of "conducting an illegal business."

The indictment charges that he lent money to his brother or to his brother's concern at a rate of 1 to 1 1/2 per cent monthly, instead of at 3 to 5 per cent monthly, as charged by other banks. The prosecution contends that he had lost more than 15,000 gold rubles ($4,000) through these transactions. It is said further by the prosecution that the Russian-American Industrial corporation still owes the bank 100,000 rubles through Krasnotcheff's illegality in financing it.

Courtroom Is Packed.
The big courtroom was packed when the trial opened at noon, looking calm and well fed, while his brother, James, known in Chicago as James, and the others on trial showed signs of nervousness. The judge, M. Solz, was formerly head of the control commission of the communist party. Of the two "jurers" one woman, the well known Mrs. Babaroff, is a member of that commission.

M. Pravda, the other juror, is a member of the communist party. Another point made in the indictment is that Krasnotcheff was on the payroll of M. Hillman of the Russian-American Industrial corporation while in public service, and transferred to his brother $5,000 of the company's money which Hillman's representative in Moscow is trying to recover.

Stand of Defense.
The defense hopes to show, it stated today, that jealousy of the other state controlled banks at the success of Krasnotcheff led to his arrest, as Krasnotcheff contends that the increase in the reserve capital of the bank was more than tenfold during his administration.

M. Krylenko, who prosecuted Archibald Leitch, is appearing for the state. He is Krasnotcheff's chief counsel. The Vice General Butchkevich, who was executed by a firing squad last March, heads the defense for Krasnotcheff.

Krasnotcheff Kicks The.
Krasnotcheff, in a speech replying to the indictment, said that the charges were laughable. He delivered a lecture on the banking business, saying he had learned real financial methods in America. "If there had been serious dealings with his brother, who was a good risk, nevertheless he must point out that the bank had not lost a penny through these transactions. On the other hand, on an initial capital of 1,000,000 rubles he had made 2,000,000 profit for the bank in the course of his administration."

"There might have been careless dealings with my brother," he continued, "but to call me a thief or an embezzler, particularly when, if I had remained in America, I had a chance to see real money, is laughable."

"Krasnotcheff said he had lent the money on better terms to his brother's concern than to state organizations, because his brother had offered real security in foreign currency, while the Russian state concern's security was doubtful."

The prosecutor, M. Krylenko, cross-examined both him and his brother for an hour without obtaining the slightest admission of a conspiracy.

An Eyewitness.
MOSCOW, March 4.—[United News.]—Under the czarist regime, Krasnotcheff was a revolutionist. In 1901 he escaped from a prison in Kief and fled to the United States. There he settled in Chicago, living in the suburb of Oakdale. Under the name of Robinson he became a lawyer and achieved a moderate success. He also headed the Workers' Institute in Chicago.

Tobinson returned to Russia in September, 1917, landing at Vladivostok. After holding minor posts he became president of the first soviet republic of Siberia, which was overthrown by the White forces. He was forced to remain in hiding in forest villages for two years. Then the soviet regime was restored, and he became president of the far eastern republic. When the republic was taken into the soviet union he came to Moscow as one of the directors of the Industrial bank.

According to evidence brought out when his trial opened today, Krasnotcheff developed keen financial genius. Suddenly the financial turned spendthrift. He participated in gay revels, threw handfuls of gold coins to cypresses and dancing girls, bought motor cars, a villa, and lived far beyond his means. His parties were the talk of Moscow, and finally the government authorities ordered an investigation as to his sources of revenue.

KNOWN IN CHICAGO.
Both A. Stroller Tobison and his brother James were for many years residents of Chicago at 2635 Cortes street. They came from the Ural mountain district of Russia. James, a laborer when he arrived here, became a civil engineer, while A. Stroller studied law at the University of Chicago. James, who married a graduate of the college at Valparaiso, Ind., resided at 2748 Washburne avenue when he left the city.

One of the sisters of the brothers is Mrs. Bertha Leavitt, last reported living at 523 North Hoyne avenue. The local brokerage firm of G. F. Redmond & Co., 108 West Jackson boulevard, yesterday came under the scrutiny of officials of the state and county and of the Chicago Board of Trade as word was received that courts had closed its New York office on charges of operating a bucket shop.

The action taken in New York is the second instance of closing a G. F. Redmond house, the Detroit office being shut down some time ago by Michigan authorities. G. F. Redmond, head of the concern, has offices in a dozen cities and is looked upon as the biggest partial payment broker in the country. The firm is not to be confused with Redmond & Co., a firm at 22 West street, New York.

Nothing Illegal Proven.
Complaints against the Chicago branch frequently have been made, but nothing illegal ever has been proven. The firm operates in much the same method as the bucketsters who were closed up last summer. A large telephone force is employed and day after day these salesmen call prospects.

Information placed in the hands of investigators is that at first the prospect generally is sold a standard stock. But Redmond, not being a member of the recognized stock exchange, this stock must be purchased through a member house which is compelled to charge Redmond the same commission he charges the buyer. Thus the transaction is conducted at apparently a "total loss."

But the customer is permitted to buy on an installment plan and generally a short time after the first purchase of a good stock is made he is switched to one not so well recognized. It is charged.

Complaints of Switching.
Complaints say that in many cases, after they had paid several installments on the second or third stock, the security would drop so far that they would stop paying. Frequently, it is said, the firm would make an effort to collect the remainder due.

Another system said to have been used by the firm was to send out their agents of telegrams recommending a stock, the addresses seemingly being picked promiscuously from available records. Sometimes, when the stock recommended rose a few points, a second telegram would be sent offering another stock which usually fell in value soon thereafter. Such stocks usually were dealt in.

Pneumonia Follows Tack's Removal from Baby's Lung.
St. Louis, Mo., March 4.—Cetus Moore, a month old, who attracted wide attention a month ago when he was rushed to Philadelphia to have a famous surgeon remove a carpet tack from one of his lungs, is in a serious condition at the city hospital suffering from pneumonia, said by physicians to have resulted from irritation caused by the tack.

Out of regard for your own health, read this letter:

"Your Kellogg's Bran" used by me as a cereal, has done more for me in my weak condition than any other food I have ever eaten. It is a wonderful food. It is so good.

Years ago, I suffered from indigestion. It alone, sweetened and purified them. It is a most necessary food to increase the amount eaten. It is eaten regularly. Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to bring permanent relief to the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. For Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be so effective. That is why doctors recommend Kellogg's.

The wonderful nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran is exclusive. It is delicious—totally unlike ordinary bran. But two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Kellogg's Bran, cooked and kummed, is made in Battle Creek, sold by all grocers.

The Farthest Frontier

Our Hats now identified with the "New Order of Things"

LIKE the thin trickle of water through the Flemish dike, the "New Order of Things" in clothes for men was only a potential force when the house of Capper & Capper first conceived it. But the stream flowed on, and became an inundation. We could no more stop it now than we could check the Atlantic tides.

When our "New Order of Things" became a living reality, the enthusiasm that greeted it was felt throughout the Middle West, and its echoes were heard across America. But through the chorus of congratulation there rang a note of expectancy, which seemed to urge expansion and fuller growth. As haters we have for many years been recognized as the unquestioned arbiters of style—but even here some new development was anticipated. Our very preeminence was taken as a proof that we recognize no "supreme perfection," and all within the organization drew an inspiration from the plainly spoken call to still higher peaks of attainment.

The course we are now taking is therefore logical and inevitable. In extending this "quality uplift" to our hats our only serious problem has been the selection of a manufacturing genius by whose vision and through whose resources this new development could be most completely realized.

Our search has brought us into close touch with many men of rare gifts, but we could not find a single figure in the manufacturing world who revealed sufficient breadth of vision, range of experience and abundance of resources—until we laid our plans before John Cavanagh,* President of the Crofut & Knapp Company.

The traditions of seventy-five years of hat manufacturing are behind this eminent man. From his boyhood till today he has been part of the great organization which he now directs, and there is no factory process—no angle of the industry—which is not within his intimate knowledge. He is recognized throughout the country as the preeminent genius in putting into concrete form the designs created to meet the ideals of America's well dressed men. But, most important of all, his ideals are identical with ours.

He has unreservedly told us that his factory resources are "an extension of the organization of Capper & Capper." Through this connection John Cavanagh becomes a vital and peculiar influence in the extension of the "New Order of Things" to Capper & Capper headwear.

All the hat models offered in any Capper & Capper store will be styled expressly for us, and restricted absolutely to us. They will be identified as exclusive Capper & Capper models, and will in every case be marked by that sharply defined individuality and absolute correctness which have maintained Capper & Capper headwear in a position of unchallenged supremacy since the earliest years of the twentieth century.

Mr. Cavanagh has frankly acknowledged his absolute dependence on our experience in gauging and determining the changes of preference among men of recognized taste and judgment. Recognizing that Capper & Capper quality is accepted as the criterion by which all other qualities are measured and compared, he has dedicated the utmost capacity that he controls in materials, equipment and manufacturing genius to the rounding out of every plan of advancement that this development may conceive.

Six weeks ago we published an announcement headed "The Impetus of an Idea." It was the prelude of this plan, and invited you to a clearance sale which was to eliminate every hat in our stores. A few days ago we announced that we had not a single hat to sell. This was in accordance with our principle that a new structure cannot be built on an old foundation, however sound and well established. There must be no confusion between standards. This principle was an essential part of our "New Order of Things" in clothes for men when it was first conceived, and through every new development of this great movement the same thoroughness is always consistently maintained.

If the merit of this principle needed proof, you would find it in the matchless masterpieces of headwear which mark the inauguration of the new order. The former standard has completely passed, and in its place is a new one, whose excellence the resources of the entire world have never attained until today.

FRANCIS BEIDLER, PIONEER CHICAGO LUMBERMAN, DIES

Francis Beidler, member of a pioneer Chicago family, died in his seventieth year yesterday in his home at 4734 Drexel boulevard. Born in Chicago in 1864, Mr. Beidler was a young man with the lumber firm owned by his father and his uncle. In 1873 he was one of the organizers of the South Branch Lumber company, which was succeeded twenty years later by Francis Beidler & Co. He also organized lumber firms in New York, North Dakota, and South Carolina. He belonged to the Chicago Athletic Association and the Chicago Union League. Hamilton, City, South Shore Country, and Press clubs. A widow, a son, a daughter, and three brothers survive him. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Beidler residence.

Lloyd George Says U. S. Got Most from War, Prohibition

BRIGHTON, England, March 4.—"The country that got the most out of the war was the United States; it gained prohibition," David Lloyd George said to a meeting of the Free church council here today. He spoke for a speaker-England and said that as a reaction from the idealism of the war the world had sunk into the slough of despond. Its struggles had become purely material, and a new temper and a new appeal were wanted.

Honor Guard Pays Last Tribute to Light Keeper

A guard of honor from the United States coast guard station at Evanston yesterday paid a last tribute to the late Capt. Edwin J. Moore, for forty-one years keeper of the Gross Point Light. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. John Rapp of the Garrett Biblical institute.

FRANCE STRIVES TO PUT BRAKE ON PLUNGING FRANG

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
PARIS, March 4.—The gravest concern in the eyes of French financiers is the possibility of a political crisis over today's record breaking fall of the franc. The dollar closed at 24 francs 30 centimes, marking a new record, 33 centimes below the former low mark on Feb. 23. At one point today the franc sank to 24.24.

Finance Minister Lathiere is holding a night session with leading French financiers in order to outline heroic measures to strengthen the falling currency.
Act on German Bank Today.
Control of Germany's budget and of the Ruhr and Rhine railways are the only important outstanding difficulties which tonight still face the reparations experts' committee. The Dawes committee will meet tomorrow to act on the subcommittee's report for a new German gold bank.

The proposed bank will have a banking division in Berlin and a currency issue branch in a neutral country. One half of the board of directors will be German. The president will be a German and a non-German will be controller.
Belgian Socialists Critique King.
BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 4.—The government of Belgium continues paralyzed tonight, and two important events today indicate that it will remain paralyzed until King Albert yields to the necessity of either giving power to the Socialists or dissolving parliament. In either case it is impossible to escape the conviction that the Ruhr policy is going to be repudiated.

Baron Houtart, first Belgian expert on the Dawes committee, refused today to try to form a cabinet. An ultimatum was issued by the Socialist party, which said that unless the king offered power to the Socialists, his conduct would be considered unconstitutional.

CROWE SCORES POLICE; WARS ON GANGSTERS

Takes Up Duffy Case; Orders Arrests.

and have failed even to question them.

"If the police have information that high officials have interfered with arrests they should present that information to the state's attorney's office. I promise that it will be acted upon. I should like to know more about the iron ring of crime that has hushed the mouths and palsied the hands of the police. There is no place in the state's attorney's office."

"Marjorie Engleke was found murdered in a flat in Carson avenue. John Duffy was found murdered in a snow-bank at the city's outskirts. One man, William Engleke, has told the police the names of two men who, knowing that Duffy had killed Marjorie Engleke, took him away in a curtained automobile."

"The police know that Duffy was antagonistic to certain photographic bootleggers. The common gossip is that these bootleggers executed Duffy. Has the iron band prevented the arrests of Dean O'Bannon and Yankee Schwartz?"

Working to Aid Police.

Assistant State's Attorney Howard Levy, Robert McMillan, Robert O'Connell, and William Smith have been assigned to conduct the investigation of all those detained. They have been at the back and call of the police every minute since Feb. 25, the day the two bodies were found.

When the combined work of the prosecutors and police had produced no results toward the solution of the murder, Chief Collins spoke for police location, first, the chief of police, Acting Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker had said politics hampered his investigation.

STATEMENT BY CHIEF

The chief then said:

"A nation-wide syndicate of criminals has made its headquarters in Chicago. The most dangerous of gunmen have collected here. The old arson ring, the pickpocket trust, the confidence men's alliance, and the late beer running crews were just office boys compared to the present aggregation."

"This is a most highly trained and efficiently organized crew, and they are tied up with smart lawyers—both exerting great influence. The same lawyers represent all men arrested for certain crimes."

Crime in All Branches.

"The present day syndicate consists of white slaves, drug peddlers, robbers, murderers, and bootleggers. Whenever certain kinds of crimes are committed the same names are linked with the case. The minute one of them is arrested there is a writ of habeas corpus asked by competent lawyers. We can't keep a person locked up either as principal or accessory."

"With the lead we had on the Duffy murders we should have had the solution by now. Operations of police officers were seriously interfered with—interference outside the law. It's not politics we have to combat, it's the greatest criminal organization Chicago ever dealt with and the police are up against a real battle. There is great wealth in back of the ring, and they know and use every technicality and loophole the law affords."

Meets of Criminals.

Mayor Dever, at the Ohio club meeting, said thieves and gunmen from all over the country had descended upon Chicago to engage in bootlegging and that when the police had stopped that line, the activities of the toughs were directed into other channels of crime. Mr. Crowe's aids spent the day in running down clues to the whereabouts of Jeanne Hanson, requesting William Engleke, residing in the corpus writ, combating Attorney Frank Comerford's efforts to obtain freedom for Orlando Horton, Maurice Curtiss, their wives, and Carl Hein. Engleke denied ever having in his possession a diamond ring belonging to the murdered woman, Maybelle Ezley Duffy, as Ruby Downing had charged. He reiterated, but added nothing to his original confession that he was a witness to the girl's murder.

Tender Gums

Signal pyorrhea's menace to the root sockets.

FIXED the signal, warns your dentist. He knows how swiftly pyorrhea, if unchecked, spreads from the gum tissue to the root sockets which hold the teeth in place. Then the teeth loosen, fall out or must be pulled.

Dental clinics since 1908 have proved the value of Pyorrhoid Powder as an aid in correcting, as well as in preventing pyorrhea. It corrects bleeding gums—strengthens tender gums—hardens soft gums. It keeps the teeth white and clean.

Use Pyorrhoid Powder daily—use your dentist regularly—and you can avoid pyorrhea. The economical dollar container contains six months' supply. All druggists.

Who's Who Among Duffy Murder Suspects

"Nabobs of Bonadon" State's Attorney Crowe termed these men, for whom he last night ordered a manhunt. The following are those wanted, and the accompanying history comes from the police department:

DEAN O'BANNON—Originally a forger, but in reality the leader and brains of the north side boot trust, hijack crew, and all around desperado. He was caught in the act of blowing a safe in the Postal Telegraph building three years ago, but a jury found him not guilty. He was tried again on a burglary charge and once more acquitted. A few months ago in front of the La Salle theater, he shot David Miller, west side fight referee. Two days later a detective bureau squad caught him in the act of holding up a $10,000 truckload of booze.

JULIUS "YANKER" SCHWARTZ—O'Bannon's shadow. A gunman from the east. Ex-convict and wanted in New York and Philadelphia. He was once the protégé of the Miller, Herberle and Davis, but double crossed them. Then he became O'Bannon's lieutenant. Schwartz was with O'Bannon at the time the latter shot Miller and the cause of it. He was the associate and sponsor for John Daugherty, alias Duffy, the Philadelphia murderer who was killed here. He was the go-between for Duffy, Orlando Horton, and O'Bannon. He and O'Bannon were the last persons seen with Duffy before his death.

EARL WEISS—A handy man for O'Bannon. Present at the Miller shooting; believed to have been in the automobile in which Duffy rode to his death. Known as a good salesman in the booze racket, clever at getting leads on new and big customers. Handy with one or two revolvers, not adverse to a stickup or hijacking; always willing to get a dishonest dollar.

DANIEL MCCARTHY—Business agent of the plumbers' union. The slayer of Steve Kelleher, another union leader, in a shoot-out in Al Tearney's café. Tried twice for the murder of three policemen in a reign of terror due to union opposition to the Landis award. Jury disagreed first time, found him not guilty the second. He was the pal of "Freddie" Mader and once Mader's partner in a roadhouse. Arrested with O'Bannon in the hijacking episode. Said to be as powerful as O'Bannon in the world of crime and more feared than O'Bannon by those who live by their guns.

JOHN TORRIO—The beer czar of Chicago, once the vice lord of the red light districts on the south side and at Burnham, Ill. Originally the subordinate of Coleman. He ruled the bad lands undisturbed for years, then when the O'Donnell gang encroached on his beer domain, the so-called beer war murders commenced. Arrested several times recently for carrying a revolver. Ably defended in all his court experiences and never imprisoned.

HIRSHIE MILLER—Political leader as a youngster. Known as the best man with his fists on the west side. When prohibition put a premium on nerve he was a pioneer in the beer and booze racket. He likewise owned a string of gambling houses. His power with the Thompson administration was immense. He and "Nella" Morton killed two policemen in a black and tan riot two years ago. Twice they faced a jury and twice they shook hands with their twelve peers. Recently went into a legitimate business. Knew Duffy, the slain man.

AL BROWN—Manager of the "Four Deuces," the most despicable resort ever kept anywhere, located at 2225 Wabash avenue and always "cheating between raids." Known as a procurer all his life. Used his revolver frequently, women often informed the police, to serve his own purposes. Took up booze as a means of getting pocket money when the vice profession was dull. He was under the wing of Torrio, worked with O'Bannon, Miller or any one else who could show him the way to ill-gotten gains. Said to have been among those present when Duffy started on the journey of death.

JIMMY MURPHY—An Italian, once owner of the "Bucket of Blood," a West Madison street dive of other days. Has dealt in booze, women and guns all his life. Believed to have been in the murder crew and missing ever since.

WILLIAM ENGELKE—A handy man for O'Bannon. Present at the Miller shooting; believed to have been in the automobile in which Duffy rode to his death. $987,000 to Be Spent on Frankfort Harbor, Mich.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—The war department forwarded recommendations to congress today for expenditure of $987,000 for improvements at Frankfort Harbor, Mich.

The recommendations include the construction of a new breakwater, the improvement of the existing breakwater, and the construction of a new pier.

The harbor is one of the most important in the Great Lakes region and is used by a large number of merchant ships.

The improvements are necessary to enable the harbor to handle the increasing traffic of ships and to protect the ships from the hazards of the open sea.

The war department estimates that the improvements will cost $987,000 and will be completed within two years.

The harbor is located on the southern shore of Lake Michigan and is about 10 miles from the city of Frankfort.

The harbor is located on the southern shore of Lake Michigan and is about 10 miles from the city of Frankfort.

The harbor is one of the most important in the Great Lakes region and is used by a large number of merchant ships.

The improvements are necessary to enable the harbor to handle the increasing traffic of ships and to protect the ships from the hazards of the open sea.

The war department estimates that the improvements will cost $987,000 and will be completed within two years.

Life Savers at Evanston Weighed by False Alarms

Members of the Evanston coast guard crew complained yesterday they were all tired out from riding the stormy waves in quest of floating cakes of ice and logs which excited residents had mistaken for corpses.

The crew, which was out yesterday morning, returned at noon, exhausted and with no life savers to show for their efforts.

FABERTY CASE LIKELY TO REACH JURORS TONIGHT

Defendant Spoofs Barbour as End Nears.

The case against Michael J. Faberty, former president of the board of local improvements, and Herbert E. Darrow, secretary of the White Paving company, probably will go to the jury tonight. Both men are charged with confidence game in connection with extra paid during construction of the Howard Link bridge.

Special Prosecutor James J. Barbour spent yesterday making his closing argument, using a blackboard and chalk, explaining by figures and diagrams his story of the "Faberty steal" and how it was possible to "put it over."

Comparing Faberty to a King, "It was atrocious," he said. "There was no one to protect the city from Faberty and his friends. The other members of the board were not functioning. Faberty was in complete control. He was king."

The morning Patrick H. O'Donnell and Charles Darrow will begin their legal arguments for the defense. After a final word by Mr. Barbour the case will go to the jury.

The attorneys for the defense yesterday made a strategic move to have the case thrown out of court, but it failed. Shortly after the evidence taking was completed Mr. Darrow asked that six counts of the indictments be dismissed, asserting that the evidence introduced by the state had failed to substantiate the charges. The motion was overruled by Judge Connel.

Mike Defends Son, Begs.

At one time yesterday the prosecution had referred to the fact that Roger Faberty, son of the principal defendant, had been on the city's pay roll for $60 a day as a special legal driver.

"Why not? He is a mighty good driver," Mr. Faberty said loud enough for the jury to hear. "He is a Tale of the family."

Another time Mr. Faberty took a roll of bills from his pocket and offered to let Mr. Barbour that he (Barbour) had been associated with William Lorimer at one time.

"That isn't true!" shouted Mr. Darrow to the jury yesterday. "I have never been associated with Lorimer."

If You Must Drink—

Stay Away from Wilmette

A policy of rigorous law enforcement in Wilmette inaugurated by Police Chief Albert Dorman and Justice Daniel Midway resulted yesterday in fines of $50 each for one Chicagoan, one Lake Forest, and one Evanston, who were found drunk in Wilmette.

"We used to lock 'em up at night and let 'em out in the morning," said Chief Dorman. "It's different now."

EASE IS THE DOMINANT NOTE IN HART SCHAFFNER & MARX SPRING STYLES

There has never been a time when men's clothes were more sensible than they are for Spring 1924; or better looking

These facts are worth telling and they're worth reading

The new styles fit easily and hang informally The whole idea is relaxation; the coats look relaxed—not snug nor stiff; they feel relaxed; the trousers are wider and more comfortable

Men look better in such clothes because they seem to be so completely at ease and so unconscious of their clothes The clothes wear better because there isn't so much strain on them

In the illustrations above you see the new models; the double breasted suits; the four piece golf suit; styles that drape easily and those that suggest the waistline They're good—not only in style but in all-wool quality

ACCUSES MELLON IN PROPAGANDA AGAINST BONUS

Witness Tells House Body of Contributions.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—(Special.)—That Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, has encouraged propaganda against the proposal to pay a bonus to veterans of the world war, was suggested by a witness who appeared today before the House committee on ways and means. The objection of the name of Secretary Mellon into the bonus discussion caused a spirited controversy among members of the House committee.

The witness, Edward L. Allen of New York City, who described himself as a real estate salesman, testified that he was one of the founders of the Ex-Service League and was for some time one of its officers.

In the course of a statement explaining the opposition of the league to bonus legislation, Mr. Allen told of the efforts of the organization to raise money to carry on its work. He mentioned George L. Davidson of Pittsburgh, an officer of the Gulf Oil Refining company, as one of those who had contributed money to fight bonus legislation.

During Company Mellon Concern. "Is the Gulf Oil Refining company a Mellon concern?" asked Representative O'Connell (Dem., Ark.). "It is," replied the witness. "This oil business has nothing to do with the bonus, the matter we have under consideration here," interrupted Representative Treadway (Rep., Mass.).

"Well, I don't know about that," observed Representative Garner (Dem., Texas), "let us look into this." Mr. Allen then mentioned H. B. Rust of Pittsburgh, an officer of the Koppers company, as another man who had been interested in raising money to finance the activities of the anti-bonus league. Asked if the Koppers company was a Mellon corporation, the witness replied that he was not advised on this subject. The witness also mentioned the Chicago By-Products company as one of the corporations, which was strongly opposing bonus bills.

Testimony Mostly Hearsay. Representative Mills (Rep., N. Y.) and Treadway insisted that most of Mr. Allen's evidence was hearsay and that he should be confined to limit his testimony to matters concerning which he had direct and personal knowledge.

"Do you make the statement that the Gulf Oil Refining company is opposing the bonus?" asked Representative Mills.

"I do," replied the witness. Mr. Allen stated further that to his knowledge Mr. Davidson of the Gulf Oil Refining company, had raised money to further purposes of the Anti-Bonus league. The witness said that complete information on the subject, could be obtained from Col. Benjamin F. Cassell of New York, treasurer of the Anti-Bonus league. Mr. Allen testified that while he was an officer of the league he had assisted in raising $70,000, which had been expended in distributing literature and maintaining speakers in the field.

Week's Former Firm Mentioned.

It was also brought out that the firm of Hornblower & Weeks, of which John W. Weeks, secretary of war, was formerly a member, had made contributions to support the fight conducted by the Anti-Bonus league. The information was submitted to the committee by John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion. Others of prominence who have made contributions to the Anti-Bonus league, according to Mr. Thomas are: Elbert H. Gary, Ralph Pulitzer, Harold Vanderbilt, Thomas W. Lamont, Cleveland H. Dodge, William H. Childs, Edwin L. Sablin, Howard Elliott, Stuyvesant Fish, Julius Kruttschnitt, Paul Warburg, H. H. Westinghouse and Colgate & Co.

The opposition of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to the bonus was outlined at length by Frank C. Page, manager of that organization's referendum department, who spoke for Vice President Goodwin.

FIND MOONSHINE KILLED WOMAN. Mystery surrounding the death of Mrs. Mary Wolf Kuchan in the Olympic hotel, 3734 Cottage Grove avenue, on Feb. 20, was dispelled yesterday when Dr. William D. McTear, coroner's chemist, reported she had died from morphine poisoning.

THOUSANDS ARE WITHOUT A ROOM, REPORT SHOWS

Thomas W. Allison, superintendent of the men's service station of the department of public welfare, has just completed statistics to show that in Chicago at the present time are some 81,500 "roomers" and that only a slight majority is properly housed.

According to Mr. Allison, the north side is the favorite location of this population. The south side runs it a close second, and the west side comes third. The far north side has 844 registered rooming houses, 10,761 rooms and 11,505 roomers; the far south side has 39,024 rooms and 22,387 roomers; the far west side numbers 5,797 rooms and 8,490 roomers, according to Mr. Allison.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD. The body of Mrs. Augusta Kahbert, 41 years old, was found yesterday in a gas filled room in the basement of her home at 6959 Woodlawn avenue.

—and then he bought a HARTMANN wardrobe!

Like many travelers... he had used all kinds of luggage and was convinced his old wardrobe (1910 vintage) was the creme de la creme of all trunks. But with so many friends recommending a Hartmann... he finally bought one. After the first trip he knew why almost everyone traveled with a Hartmann. Its garment-carrying service gives great ease of mind because the clothes are taken from it at the journey's end... without a wrinkle... ready for any social occasion. And best of all... the low cost of a Hartmann... makes it possible for everybody to own one! It's a valet trunk... at home or when traveling.

Forward March—buy a Hartmann!—a direction—not a command.

STUART PORTRAIT FUND IS BOOSTED TOWARD ITS GOAL

Newspaper and Scouts Largest Donors.

The campaign to raise $75,000 for the purchase of the Gilbert Stuart portrait of George Washington yesterday passed the $10,000 mark. The largest swelling of the fund came from a subscription of $1,000 by Victor F. Lawson, publisher of the Daily News, who sent a check for that amount to the Art Institute and a letter commending the enterprise.

Boy Scout troops following the lead of Trinity church troop yesterday, began working to aid the fund.

"I know a number of scouts are interested in getting this famous picture in Chicago," one scout said yesterday. "We are always interested in any patriotic move and this is one which we ought to support."

Visitors increasing.

The number of people who stop at the Art Institute to view the famous portrait on the second floor is increasing daily, according to officials of the institute. Many who have never been in the institute come only to view the painting.

"Quite frequently," one of the attendants said, "some boy or girl comes in, looks at the picture for a while, then goes over to a contribution box and drops in a few pennies, a nickel or a dime."

The visitors are not limited to children, however, as hundreds of grown persons climb the stairs to admire the likeness. Many of these are loop workers employed near the Art Institute, who drop in at lunch time for a few minutes expressly to see the famous picture.

Expect School Returns Soon.

Returns from the public schools are expected in a few days, as the time for taking up contributions has expired. Several of the schools have already reported directly to the Art Institute, others to the office of the superintendent of schools, and others to the district superintendents. The latter will probably wait until all schools in their districts have reported, then turn the reports and the money over to the central office.

Tus Tansons will acknowledge and turn over to the Art Institute all contributions sent to it and letters may be addressed to the editor of Tus Tansons or to Robert B. Havsho, director of the Art Institute. Contributions received by Tus Tansons, Herald-Examiner, and Art Institute follow:

WOMAN'S SUIT AGAINST CANDLER DELAYED 1 DAY

Decatur, Ga., March 4.—Trial of a suit for $100,000 against Walter T. Candler, son of Asa G. Candler, Atlanta soft drink millionaire, by Mrs. Sarah Byfield, also of Atlanta, will be called in court here tomorrow.

Mrs. Byfield, according to a court petition filed by her against the defendant, charges that Mr. Candler attacked her while she and her husband, Clyde E. Byfield, Mr. Candler, and his two young daughters were en route to the rope on board the liner Berengaria in 1922.

The defendant has denied all accusations. He claims this suit followed one filed by him to recover $25,000 which he alleged Mr. Byfield obtained from him the morning following the alleged incident.

SAVINGS FOR WOMAN. Three armed men held up Mrs. Stella Gurnas in her delicatessen store at 4328 West Van Buren street yesterday. They took $15.

Yellow Cab Service

Some time after the birth of YELLOW CAB we promised you that if you would give us your patronage we would eventually blanket Chicago with our cabs and stations so that anyone living in the city limits could have Yellow Cab at his door in 5 minutes.

The promise has been kept. Today Yellow Cab's Service extends as far as Lake Forest on the North, the Des Plaines River on the West and Hammond, Ind., on the South. In that territory there are 127 stations equipped with private telephones and uniformed starters, located for equable public service and convenience.

A glance at the map will show you the garages we have built and the convenient stations we have established to facilitate service to the public. This, to say nothing of the stations at depots, hotels, clubs, big stores and the public points provided by law.

Through the medium of these garages and stations, Yellow Cabs are just as numerous in the suburbs in proportion to population as they are in Chicago's residential and business districts. More than this, each driver is assigned to the garage that is nearest his home, because of his familiarity with the district, and to save time going to and from work.

These garages are located in the same systematic manner as fire-houses and police stations—each with a given territory to cover—each one a complete unit—with its own manager, assistant managers, inspectors, drivers, cashiers, mechanics and washers.

There is no railroad in America that is operated more systematically than Yellow Cab—no army anywhere that moves with greater regularity, precision or discipline—no method of local transportation that equals it in ease, comfort, dispatch and continuity.

It is the direct result of ORGANIZED and FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY without which no cab company can succeed.

The thinking fellow calls a Yellow

ELECTRIFYING OF RAILROADS PAID FOR BY SAVINGS

BY SCRUTATOR.

Unofficial reports have it that the next considerable electrification job to be undertaken on an American railroad will be the electrification of the Boston and Albany. Its total mileage is 234. Electrification of its main trunk line will be in line with present developments on the eastern end of the New York Central system and further objectives of that system here and at Cleveland.

With the more favorable financial showing of the roads last year, and the prospect that they may gain a breathing spell from the bankers while the politicians continue to feature oil, the outlook for further progress in electrifying connected main lines and terminals is good. The roads continue to order new equipment this year at a rate that knocks out the gloom artists who figured out a business slump when they were fully supplied. But traction and maintenance have bulked bigger in this year's plans. Electrification is proving so potent in substitution for secondary trackage that it requires no forced optimism to forecast rapid developments.

Projects for industrial super-power systems and the electrification of transport are being welded together more and more as the economies of such linkage are realized. Past calculations as to the enormous savings in operating costs to be obtained by electrifying 10,000 miles of our rail system are widely known. Such figures have shown that many of these projects would pay for themselves in a few years, although their cost exceeds the total cost of building many of the original systems. In itself this indicates the high ratio of railroad operating expenses to investment income.

The electrification of the Virginia railway, now in progress, was made possible by the magnitude of savings possible in a coal road crossing mountains. These possible savings were so great and capable of such immediate realization that the investment could be undertaken even under political clouds and chaotic conditions in the fuel industry.

But such enormous savings as have been calculated probably do not tell the whole story. For Chicago, St. Paul and the other great cities, the electrification of the railroads is not always taken into account the further economies that can be realized in generating and transmission investment by linking rail electrification and industrial super-power.

For the north Atlantic seaboard and for certain terminal areas such figures have been made. However, for Chicago, St. Paul and the other great cities, the electrification of the railroads is not always taken into account the further economies that can be realized in generating and transmission investment by linking rail electrification and industrial super-power.

Our switching district covers over 1 per cent of all the rail mileage of the country and the electrification of the greater portion of the total motive power. Conditions here are unusually favorable, because of the great diversity of demand and high load factors incident to a great industrial, trading and population center, but some idea of the economies of linking industrial super-power and electrified transport can be obtained from the Chicago situation.

Here, as elsewhere, the power used in industry has been gaining on the power used in transport, which tends to make the electrification of the railroads less costly, because the source of power are being developed on an enormous scale and cheaper power is thus made available to railroads.

The 1113 ft required more energy for electrical transportation on and over the streets and for the steam roads than was required for the whole light and power system of the city. Today Chicago's light and power demand is twice

NEW YORK.—Max Perelson has disposed of his interests in the Perelson, Indianapolis, Ind. It was learned here, J. S. Strider acquiring them. Details of the transaction are lacking.

BERLIN.—Prices on merchandise suitable for export are being lowered to a slight extent at the Leipzig spring fair, now in progress. The downward revision of prices is due to the strong protests voiced by visiting American buyers against the quotations asked. Since prices have been reduced, the American buyers are purchasing cashmere, tops and corvettes, but they are still reticent from placing orders on textiles, considering that impossible prices are demanded.

NEW YORK.—The gray goods market was quiet. There was less inquiry noted, prospective buyers evidently holding off in the hope of further concessions materializing. Expectations in this respect failed to realize, however, and the volume of actual trading was small. Prices were firm and unchanged generally. Quotations on popular print cloth constructions were as follows: 64x80, 5.35 yards to the pound; 10% extra; 72x72, 4.25 yards to the pound; 13% extra; 80x80, 4.70 yards to the pound; 15% extra.

Development of farm electrification will still further lower the cost of power for electrified rails.

Fortunately Chicago has passed the worst of the winter. With the Illinois terminal problem coming to a head, and we are in sight of actual power linkage of industry and transport here—providing always that political paralysis can be prevented.

$100,000 Loan for Northwest Planned

Directors of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association at a meeting yesterday issued an appeal to the entire membership to lend $100,000 in aid of northwestern farmers and bankers. Each member is asked to lend $1,000. If this is done the association will be able to move, than double the amount it proposes to advance.

The New York Times.

New York, March 4.—(Special.)—The movement of prices on the New York stock exchange today was generally irregular during the greater part of the day with a hardening of prices near the close which carried a majority of the active issues to higher levels.

Taken by groups the railroad shares displayed more strength in the late dealing, as shown by the compilation of the averages. Twenty-five representative rails moved up about 1/2 point, while the same number of industrials gained about 1/2 point at the close.

At the start the market was heavy. Shortly thereafter, however, a rally set in which changed the tenor of the entire list.

Active speculation in the French franc continued. The movement of the price was not, however, altogether in one direction. The low price had been practically reached in London, where the cost of the pound sterling in francs stood at the highest record of the season before the New York opening.

New York's market adjusted itself to the London rate by a fall from 4.07 cents to 4.01c, at which price, however, what appeared to be American buying started a quick recovery which advanced the price to 4.15, the high rate of the week. The most that can be said of these fluctuations is that they apparently indicated what Wall Street calls "a market with two sides to it."

Bondholders are requested to deposit their bonds with all coupons attached with Bankers Trust Company, No. 16 Wall Street, New York City, which will issue against such deposits Certificates of Deposit under said Deposit Agreement.

The committee believe that prompt action should be taken for the protection of the bonds and to that end prompt deposit of bonds under said Deposit Agreement is important.

Copies of the Deposit Agreement, when prepared, may be obtained from said Depository or the Secretary of the Committee. Application will be made to list the Certificates of Deposit for the bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.
